An Epitaph on SIR ISAAC NEWTON.

Approach, ye wise, approach with awe divine,
'Tis Newton's name that consecrates this shrine!
That SUN of wisdom, whose meridian ray,
Pierc'd Nature's gloom and kindled it to day!
That soul of science! that unbounded mind!
That genius which exalted human kind!
Confess'd supreme of man, his country's pride.
And half esteem'd an angel—till he dy'd!
Who in the eye of heav'n like Enoch stood;
And thro' the paths of knowledge walk'd with GOD!
Who made his fame a sea without a shore,
And but forsook one world to know the laws of MORE.

ODDITY IF NOT POETRY.

From "A Poem on the volubility of the Tongue."

Each Tongue's a shuttle, and each Mouth a loom,
And for their products scarce the ears find room!
The tongue's a shuttle, which goes to & fro,
Weaves words together till they speeches grow;
Remanufactures with the nicest care
Frightful old stories to make children stare;
And tales of woes which, if they gain the ear
Excite our pity and call forth a tear!
Much about nothing, as there were mistrust
That lack of motion would this shuttle rust.
A warp each wordy weaver's mind does spin
To put imagination's filling in.
All things now ready, forth the shuttle speeds
And lo! the filling much the warp exceeds!
No wonder then the fidgets seize on some,
Who hear the shuttle when the warp has done.
Mill clacks are loudest when the grist runs out
Woman's most loud when least to talk about!

FROM THE SALEM GAZETTE.

POLITICAL REVIEW.

The following extract of a letter from a most venerable member of congress to his friend in Essex, (dated Washington, April 29, 1810,) will, as well as the letter of the hon. Mr. Breckenridge, on the first page, be read with interest and mortification, by those who wish to know what our rulers are about.

"The adjournment of congress is one act, if not the only one, during a session of 156 days, which will meet with the universal approbation of all parties of the nation, especially as it is likely to put an end to all the system of embargo, non-intercourse and all that sort of trumpery, which has exhausted our treasury, impoverished our citizens, and broken the spirit of the nation. Some of our members are apparently as melancholy at the thought that they are like to adjourn and go home, without either war—embargo—nonintercourse, or any blessing of that sort to carry home to their constituents, as if they had lost two or three of their nearest friends; and indeed the situation and feelings of the present majority in congress is by no means an eviable one;—defeated, divided, bewildered, and disheartened—forced to abandon all their darling schemes of resisting aggressions and of humbling the belligerents (that is England) they present rather a sorry spectacle to the world. Finding the treasury exhausted, our little army almost annihilated by bad management, and the spirit of the nation broken by a series of preposterous measures which instead of operating upon the belligerents have only reacted upon themselves. The war spirit seems to be considerably broken down.

"This situation, it is true, neither presents a terrific aspect to the nations of Europe, nor is calculated to gratify our national feelings. Whatever boasting there may be about the increase of democracy in the country, particularly in the northern section of the union, certain it is that it never was at a lower ebb at head quarters than at the present moment. One of our most zealous majority men observed in a speech made some ten or twelve days ago, that if congress closed the present session without doing any thing effectual for the honor and safety of the nation, it would be in fact telling the nation and the world, that they were unfit to manage the helm, and they ought to resign it into other hands. However I might doubt the correctness of some of the positions which he advanced, I had no controversy with him about this for I believe a more manifest want of capacity, energy and system, never appeared in any public body.——The scheme of embargo, non-intercourse, &c. will be suffered to expire of itself (a long quietus to it!) and in all their researches after a substitute it will be found impossible for them to agree in any thing.

In the house of representatives we have, properly speaking, no majority; at least it is all haphazard on which side that majority will fall. There are at least three if not four parties in the house—the federalists, & about ten or twelve who do not really assume the name of federalists, but who usually vote with them; and the remainder, who compose a majority of the whole, are divided into the peace party, and war party. The latter, (which probably consists of about thirty members, who cannot deny the reiterated injuries of the French, nor help acknowledging the favorable disposition of Great Britain towards the adjustment of our difficulties) even at this day advocate as the only proper course, the taking off all restriction so far as it respects France, which they say will enable us to obtain good terms from her; and the adoption of vigorous hostile measures against England, which they say would soon compel her to concede to an accommodation on our own terms! But as they are sensible this plan cannot be carried through, therefore they don't propose it.

"In addition to the clashing of parties in the house of representatives, almost the only thing in which the house and senate appear to agree, is to disagree in almost every thing. Indeed our situation is nearly or quite a novel one. It is uncertain what is the majority in the house, and where the majority falls. There can be no calculation on a majority in the senate; and it is extremely questionable whether the executive can command a majority in either house. Jefferson, by an influence almost unbounded, moulded, fashioned and managed the party at his pleasure.—His influence, however, was on the decline before he left the helm. Madison is rather managed by, than a manager of, the party. Indeed I can consider him but little more than a mere puppet, without either energy or independence, but bandied about at pleasure; and his managers are, I believe, rapidly losing their influence.—The party must evidently soon crumble to pieces; but the danger is, that the constitution of our country will go to wreck with it.

"When the session was protracted for eight days longer, I thought it probable something might be done; but a week, lacking one day, has elapsed, and nothing is like to be done. The second commercial bill, called No. 2, or the 50 per cent duty bill, is like to share the same fate of the first. The duty has been struck out, and a provision to grant convoy has been substituted in its stead. This will not pass the house; and the whole apparatus of non-intercourse, embargo, &c. will be suffered to expire at the close of the session. Two or three days have been taken up, during the last week, on a proposition for reducing the navy. This has been discussed, not so much with any expectation of being able to pass any bill on the subject, as with a view to protract the time until the close of the session, and with a view to expose an abominable sinecure establishment, the expences of which were enormous. Was the British navy maintained at a proportionate rate of expense with that of the pigmy navy of the United States, the revenues of the world would not be sufficient to defray the expense.

"Some statements have been obtained from the treasury department this session, which give a proper view of the economy of the two administrations. Enclosed I send you the copy of a summary prepared from official documents, and published as part of a circular by the honorable Mr. Sweope, of Virginia: its authenticity may be depended upon. It is to be observed, that the federalists did something with the money which they expended. At the close of their administration, the federalists had upwards of forty ships of war of different grades. They had had a long and tedious Indian war to carry on, and two insurrections to quell.—The navy, under the present administration has, by selling and rotting together, been reduced to the mere skeleton of what it was once. Excepting the trifling war of Tripoli, the nation has been at peace, and there has been no insurrection to quell.

"Upon the whole, my dear sir, our situation affords but a gloomy prospect.—From what quarter light may arise in the midst of our darkness, time will unfold.—Whatever communications have been received from Europe by the executive none has been communicated to Congress, consisting I suppose of what would be called private letters. We know nothing only what we learn from the papers. The long expected John Adams had not left England March 25th, and probably has not left Europe yet. The latest accounts from England were favorable; but if the same disposition prevails in the cabinet as formerly, no arrangement can be made which our government will dare to accept. I hope however this hostile spirit begins to be a little mollified, not perhaps so much by a change of feeling, as by a sense of incapacity to carry on a system of hostility The disorganised state of the party, and the destruction of our little army at New-Orleans, and the exhausted state of our treasury, present but little, gratifying to the war feelings.—May GOD appear for our nation, and save us from the perdition with which we are threatened!"

From a Philadelphia Paper.

A very strong sensation has been created in Germany and Holland, by a small pamphlet, which was clandestinely put into circulation in the beginning of January, entitled "The complaints of the people of the continent, on the subject of the interruption of their commerce, addressed to all the princes of this part of the world." The French police at Hamburg, where it is supposed to have been printed, have in vain, offered a reward of six hundred rix dollars for a discovery of the author and printer; and it continues to be eagerly sought after by persons of every description, notwithstanding the denunciation of a penalty of 300 rix dollars against any one having a copy in his possession.

From the Same.

The attempts lately made to introduce the culture of the tea tree in Corsica, have been crowned with complete success, and is likely to be productive of the most important consequences. China sells yearly 34,000,000 pounds of tea to Europe, and the sums are immense which the Europeans pay to China for that drink—Corsica is situated nearly in the same latitude as China.

NEW YORK, May 14:

Captain Dillinger, who arrived at this port on Saturday from Tarragona, informs us, that on the 28th of March, off Malaga, he spoke the ship Recovery, captain Stokes from Gibraltar for Alicant, who informed him that admiral Collingwood had died at Cadiz, and that all the ships at Gibraltar were dressed in mourning on the occasion.

LATEST FROM SPAIN.

Yesterday arrived at this port the ship Adriane, capt. Burrows, from Cadiz, which she left on the 4th of April. Capt. B. informs us that a British fleet had just arrived from England with 5000 troops, who were debarking the day he sailed. Fourteen British ships of the line were in Cadiz Bay; and the anglo Spanish army were determined to hold the city. The French army were on the opposite shore progressing with their fortifications. Lord Collingwood died off Toulon; his body was bro't to Cadiz in the Victory, and put on board a frigate which sailed for England on the 3d of April.

Markets good at Cadiz for American produce.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

On Saturday arrived at this port the ship Laura, Taber, in 42 days from Hull, which port he left on the first of April, and has brought London papers to the 24th of March inclusive, one day later than our former advices.

Capt. T. informs us, that the frigate John Adams had sailed from England for France—that it was understood Mr. Pinkney, the American minister, had arranged a treaty with the British government, and that a splendid dinner had been given to him (Mr. Pinkney) on the occasion.

We further learn from a passenger in the Laura, that a British fleet of men of war, consisting of 22 sail of the line, were fitting out with the greatest expedition, destined, as was supposed, against Cronstadt.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.

French Privateers.—The capture of the French privateers, the Duc de Montebello, the Intrepide, and the vessel bearing the papers of the pirogue called la Petit Chance has disclosed a system of iniquity which has heretofore been unparalleled in this country. There appears to be a regularly connected chain of villainy, which the breaking of this link gives us hopes will be entirely destroyed. We suspect many persons being engaged who now share our hospitality, and all the rights of American citizens—we hope, however, for the honor of the American name, that none of our countrymen are engaged. The Duc de Montebello was fitted out at Baltimore, purchased by a capt. White,* cleared out with French passengers for St. Bartholomews, was called the Amiable, put into Savannah (Georgia) armed, shipped part of her crew, sailed, and received the rest from on board a vessel commanded by captain Kunn. She assumed off the bar of Charleston the French character and name she now wears; sailed on a cruize, robs, sinks, burns and destroys every American, Spanish and English vessel she falls in with, until glutted with plunder, she is compelled to put into this port under pretence of distress; her captains name is Besson; her apparent owner's name Brouard——One Menton and a certain John de Loupe make conspicuous figures on board of her.

The Intrepide was built here, sailed from this port about two months since on her first voyage to St. Bartholomews with French passengers, commanded by a capt. Rogers, where it is said she was sold by him to Souvinet, one of the passengers, and sailed with the rest of the passengers under the command of Broughmen to St. Martins, where she obtained a French commission, proceeded on a cruize, and after taking from on board a Spanish vessel 6000 dollars, put in here under pretence of distress. On board the Duc de Montebello is found a commission for a vessel to be called "The French soldier," to be commanded by Broughman, who now commands the Intrepide.

The schooner which bears the papers of pirogue la Petit Chance is commanded by a person by the name of St. Caste, who says he sailed from Guadaloupe in the Petit Chance, of between five and six tons burthen, on a cruize; but meeting this vessel, and finding her a very fast sailer, he took his crew on board her, gave the Petit Chance to the crew of the schooner and went on a cruize. After making several captures and destroying several vessels, he put into this port in distress. On examining his leak it was found to be a fresh bored auger hole.

The schooner Blossom, arrived here from St. Jago with a number of passengers sailed under the command of a certain John Jaque, under American colors, and spoke by the Montebello off the bar of the Balize a short time since, bearing a different name, cruizing as a privateer under French colors, and richly laden with plunder who is no doubt somewhere on our coast engaged in smuggling her cargo into this place.

* We are told this is a mistake.

The captain of the Montebello supplied with a boat which he had taken from an American brig; and she proceeded to the westward, where some of our vessels of war have pursued her without effect.

The schooner Leonora sailed from this port under Swedish colors for St. Barthomews with about 88 French passengers on board, and was strictly examined at the Balize by our vessels of war, in order to find arms on board her, but without effect—She proceeded to Breton Island, where it is supposed she took on board her arms & ammunition, as she has since appeared off the Balize in chace of some vessels and has plundered others.

We hear of a schr. called the Superior, now cruizing off Jamaica, sinking and burning every vessel she meets; not long since she was at Charleston; also other privateers which sailed from Guadaloupe before it surrendered, and are supposed to be destined for this place; they are now cruizing in the neighborhood of Cuba and Jamaica.

The system of warfare conducted by those men is a disgrace to human nature. Having now no place to send their prizes to, they destroy them on the high seas; and perhaps the prisoners share the same fate of their vessels, for we find none on board but a few persons of color, intended no doubt for sale. Nor do they confine their outrage to English and Spanish vessels: we find the Montabello has robbed three American vessels, has burnt one, ransomed another; the protest of Captain Schoolfield is in part evidence of this fact.

We hear of a vessel that was purchased at Norfolk, by some Frenchmen, and sailed for Savannah, but stopped at Hampton, where she was equipped in every respect for a privateer: this circumstance joined to the circumstance of the Montebello's having been equipped by a certain Jerome at Savannah, we are induced to believe New Orleans and Savannah are intended as the two principal places of rendezvous. When we recollect the buccanneering system which was conducted by Dampier and others, can we doubt of an intention in these people to renew it!

There exists no authority whatever at this moment for privateering in those seas, and yet those seas are full of vessels which have assumed that character; and when the privateers may have assembled in squadrons what guarantee have we for their honesty? What security from their depredations on our commerce; perhaps these very cities which hailed them to our shores as distressed and exiled brothers, and benevolently extended to them charity and protection, may be laid under contribution, or perhaps in ashes!

We have felt it as our duty to give this warning, and it rests with the officers of government to avoid the danger.

Died at his seat in Hingham, yesterday morning, major gen. BENJAMIN LINCOLN.——The death of general Lincoln, "full of years and full of honor," is no common misfortune. His great revolutionary services; his irreproachable moral character; his incorruptible personal integrity—and the solidity of his political sentiments, conspire to render his loss a public calamity, as well as a distressing family bereavment.

CLEARED,

Sloop Harmony, Ellwood, Philadelphia, by the master.

Farmer Fancy, M'Pherson, George Town, by Bowie and Kurtz.

Domestic News!——The bickerings of heads of departments, have not terminated with the session of an unpopular congress; and the attacks on Gallatin having, as is supposed disgusted the president, a change of ministry nearer home than England, is quite possible. The jarring in our cabinet no longer rests on our mere rumor; for we know, if the evidence of a letter (which we have seen) from a southern democratic congressman be sufficient, that a serious misunderstanding exists. Certain management, thus far apparently successful, may yet subserve the interests of the STATE, whatever may befal the SECRETARY. Other letters, we believe, hint that it is quite as probable Gallatin will succeed Secretary Smith as that there can be a sincere reconciliation between the President and Gallatin's opponents. There is some whispering about Mr. Jackson's being again received, and negociations with him recommenced. Of this we speak not confidently. Fed. Gaz.

Having received information that several vessels had been fitted and armed within the waters of the United States, with intent to cruise against the subjects of a foreign prince with whom the United States are at peace, government has issued instructions to institute prosecutions against all persons whatever who may have been or shall hereafter be concerned in the fitting out & arming of any such vessel or in the augmenting of the force of any such vessel.

MEDICAL ELECTRICITY.

THESE may certify, that the subscriber was, some time about mid summer 1806, attacked with violent pains, inflamation and extreme soreness in every part from my fingers to my toes; medical aid was had, but, apparently to no effect; general immersion in warm water was used, but the vehemence of inflammation resisted perspiration, and my disease threatening, if not my life, yet certainly, the loss of every limb. Disparing of cure by ordinary means; by advice, I called for Dr. Th. Gale, and by the time he came every joint was almost immoveably fixed—he administered 100 light electrical shocks in different parts of the system; the effect was, my pores were excessively expanded, a copious and voluntary perspiration immediately succeeded to the electrification, and, to my surprise, my sweat was impregnated with such a quantity of lime or chalk, as might be smelt, tasted and rubbed up on the skin any where.

After sweating through the succeeding night the disease was so far abated as to enable me to move my limbs with much freedom; but as some parts had not recovered equally to others, I received ninety more light strokes of electricity, which in two or three days eradicated the whole affection. My feet, however, were so very tender I was obliged to wear very thick soaled shoes for a few months.

LEONARD COOK.

Alexandria, May 1, 1810.

REFLECTIONS.

In the above case we see the salutary effects of electricity in attenuating, even the substance of lime, of expanding the pores and voiding the offending humors in very copious quantities. Is this incredible?——I have in my house examples of glass pulverized by the electric shock.——The spark from the thunder cloud will break up the cohesion of metals, it will rupture the blood vessels of animals, ooze through the skin, burn boots or shoes, or whatever is not sufficiently pervious to the electrical effluvia, from a man—Why not, when administered in a due diminished quantity, remove the tensity and density of the blood vessels in fever? Why not attenuate the miasma of the blood and carry it off by perspiration? Why not attenuate a scrofulous tumor? Why not purge the glans? Why not then be able to cure cancers, kings-evil, prevent ulcers, abscesses, dropsies, gravel or stone; yes, and consumption too? And lastly, who is in the fault, that after using electricity forty or fifty years, the electrician has not yet discovered the importance of keeping his patient exceedingly warm under its use? These are questions humbly submitted to the consideration of the discreet reader.

Valuable Property—For Sale.

I WISH to sell my farm on Coan River in the county of Northumberland, state of Virginia, containing 700 acres; about 400 acres of which are covered with pine and oak timber of the first quality. The arable part of this land will, under a judicious system of cultivation, yield fine crops of Indian corn, wheat, rye, barley, hemp, flax and cotton, and the various kinds of artificial grasses; the pasture yielding wild onion and other natural herbage affords, with the woodland, a fine range for sheep and horned cattle: This land is situate nearly equi-distant from Alexandria, Baltimore and Norfolk. From the city of Washington to the Bay there is not, on either side of the Potomac, a more valuable tract of land of equal dimension—the value of the timber, the richness of the soil, the facility with which its produce can be conveyed to three oppulent commercial cities, will amply reward the exertions of the experienced and industrious farmer. It has several springs of excellent water; and the adjoining creek and river abound with fish, wild fowl and oysters.

The purchaser may be accommodated with the stock of farming utensils on easy terms. Amongst the stock is a small flock of about 100 fine wool sheep. A sample of their fleece has been sent to Philadelphia, where, from the fineness and softness of its staple, it will bring from 70 to 80 cents per pound, (if proper care be taken of the sheep in winter.) And by crossing this breed with Spanish Merino Rams, it is the opinion of many respectable farmers, that the wool produced from the crossed breed will be equally valuable, in every point, to that of the best Spanish sheep.

I will also dispose of a small piece of land about two and a half miles from town, being part of a tract known by the name of STUMP HILL:—It contains 12 acres 9 of which are cleared and well enclosed: part of that which is cleared has produced luxuriant crops of clover for three years successively. There are on it a small unfinished FRAME HOUSE, a HUT fit for negroes; some apple and peach trees; and a perpetual spring of good water. The situation is high and healthy.

Also a handsome convenient dwelling house now in the occupancy of Mr. M'Kenna, with a good cellar, kitchen, smoke-house, stable &c. &c. It is situated in a healthy and agreeable part of the Town. The above described property is perfectly free from all incumbrance, and the title is unquestionable. Cash, or Bank stock of any of the Banks in the territory of Columbia and Baltimore, will be expected in part payment: a liberal credit will be given for the remainder. For further particulars apply by letter to the subscriber at the Bank of Alexandria.

ORIGINAL
FAMILY MEDICINES,

Prepared by RICHARD LEE & SON,

Have been in high estimation and general use throughout the United States, for upwards of ten years. And, it is no inconsiderable evidence of their utility, that during the above period, numerous imitations of every article, the productions of ignorance and experience, urged by envy and penury, have been intruded on the public, seen for a day, and then perished! Others now succeed them, which in like manner are fast descending to the tomb of the Capulets; while our remedies become more generally used, and acquire a daily accession of deserved celebrity.

Lee's Worm-destroying Lozenges.

This medicine is superior to any ver offered to the public, being innocent and mild certain and efficacious in its operations.—Should no worms exist in the body, it will without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders.

Lee's Elixer.

A certain remedy for colds, coughs, asthmas, and particularly the whooping cough, so destructive to children.

Lee's Essence of Mustard,

So well known for the cure of rheumatisms, gout, palsy, sprains, &c. &c.

Lee's Grand Restorative,

Proved by long experience to be unequalled in the cure of nervous disorders, consumptions, lowness of spirits, inward weakness, &c.

Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills,

For the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant fevers.

Lee's Sovereign Ointment for the Itch,

Which is warranted an infallible remedy at one application.

Infallible Ague & Fever Drops,

For the cure of agues, remittent, and intermittent fevers.

Lee's Genuine Persian Lotion,

Celebrated for the cure of ring worms setter, &c.

Lee's Genuine Eye Water.

An effectual remedy for all diseases of the eyes.

Tooth-ache Drops.

Which give immediate relief.

Lee's Damask Lip Salve.

Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

The Anodyne Elixir,

For the cure of every kind of head-ach.

The Indian Vegetable Specific,

For the cure of venereal complaints.

Those medicines having come into general use, they are frequently purchased not only by Druggists, but by country store keepers to sell again; in order that the purchasers may be confident they have the original genuine medicines; wherever they purchase they have but to observe, that every article of medicine has on the outward wrapper the signature of the proprietors.
